BY TELEGRAPH.

TELEGRAPHED FOR THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

FROM WINCHESTER, VA.

RICHMOND, June 17.—A dispatch from the Rockingham Register, dated 16th inst., addressed to the agent of the associated press, says:

Gen. Ewell attacked the enemy at Winchester on Saturday and the fight was continued throughout Sunday.

On Monday the fight was renewed at 4 o'clock and after a struggle of about one hour the Abolition flag was lowered and our victorious army of vetrans took entire possession, when Milroy's command surrendered, from six to seven thousand men together with all their stores embracing several hundred Horses, Wagons and equipments, artillery and trains.

Our loss in killed, wounded and missing will not exceed one hundred.

Not one of our officers has been killed.

Milroy was endeavoring to escape, but it is rumored he has been captured.

Col. Alcott, endeavoring to reinforce Milroy with 2,000 men, was captured by Gen. Edward Johnston, Sunday evening, near Berryville,

THE WAR ON THE MISSISSIPPI.

Special Dispatch to the Memphis Appeal.]

FEDERAL ADMISSION THAT THE RESULT DEPENDS UPON GENERALSHIP.

SENATOBIA, June 11.—The Northern papers are preparing the public mind for a siege of Vicksburg. Their strength in the situation, as compiled from Northern sources, places Grant's present forces at 70,000, including recent reinforcements.—Additional aid is being sent forward. The principal base of supplies, &c., is stated to be on the Yazoo.

Confederates have reached Port Hudson, and were holding Banks in check.

Kirby Smith is threatening communication on the Mississippi above the mouth of the Yazoo, and Price is supposed to be threatening Helena at other points. His force is estimated at from ten to twenty thousand, and it is thought the result depends upon Generalship. B.

FIGHT AT PORT HUDSON, &c.

OSYKA, June 16.—A desperate fight took place at Port Hudson on the 12th. The Confederates left their entrenchments and charged the enemy, driving them from their fortifications, and also spiked their siege guns.

A citizen from New Orleans on Saturday evening, reports many regiments arriving from Baton Rouge. The Federals are despondent. They say that they can't take Port Hudson by assault.

Provisions are high and rising at New Orleans. The river is very low.

There is other cheerful, but contraband, news.

The St. Charles Hotel is filled with wounded from Port Hudson, brought at night by boat loads.

FROM THE MISSISSIPPI.

MOBILE, June 17.—The Tribune has a special dispatch from Jackson, by a courier who arrived at Brookhaven last night from Port Hudson, which reports our troops in fine spirits. They repulsed the enemy 27 times. An attack is close at hand.

JACKSON, June 17.—A courier from Port Hudson reports that the enemy was punished severely. His Company, being in front. The Zouave regiment made good marks—the boys taking deliberate aim, killed and wounded immense numbers. He says they have 80 days provisions, and no fears need be entertained. They are determined to hold out to the last.

SUMMIT June 16.—A courier from Gen. Logan states that he dashed into Jackson last Monday and captured 100 Yankees of the 40th N. Y. cavalry with their wagons and arms, and 20 negroes, 120 horses. A Major and other officers were among the prisoners.

A FEDERAL CAMP RAGGED.

From the Mobile Advertiser & Register.]

JACKSON, June 12.—The Natchez Courier says that on the 11th instant Gens. Dick Taylor and Walker attacked the Federal camp, 2,000 strong, at Camp Perkins, Ashland, La., killing, wounding and capturing the entire force, save a few who escaped to a gunboat.

This was one of a series of similar camps, extending from Grand Gulf to Milliken's Bend, and encircling Vicksburg on the west side of the river.

VICTORY CONFIRMED.

RICHMOND, June 17.—Passengers by the Central train from the Valley confirm the late telegram from Harrisonburg. They also report Milroy's escape with an escort of cavalry. No other news. Weather warm and no rain yet.

FROM SOUTHWEST.

JACKSON, June 12.—There was heavy firing all night at Vicksburg, and it is still raging.

A Federal deserter from Port Hudson says Banks was two days burying his dead, the slaughter was so great.

A gentleman through from New Orleans says it is currently stated that Gen. Magruder has entire control of the Opetousas railroad, and was within fifteen miles of the city. The Federals were much excited.

Generals Pierce, Dow and Sherman are dead.

The troops are on the move, and all being sent up to Port Hudson. The wounded are continually arriving.

The New Orleans papers publish nothing about the battle.

Last Sunday Grierson burned the courthouse at Clinton, La., and then left.

A courier from Vicksburg reports the garrison in good spirits and confident. Loss slight. S.

LETTER FROM ARKANSAS.—Little Rock, Ark., May 6, 1863.—We have but little news of interest on this side of the river. Our cavalry has an occasional skirmish with the enemy. Colonel Dobbins with 250 men pitched into a scout of 300 or 400 of the Federals in the neighborhood of Helena, on Saturday last, and completely routed them, killing and capturing 65, without the loss of but two wounded.—Other prisoners have been brought in from the Missouri line within the last few days.

Our troops are in fine condition, and notwithstanding the most of them are conscripts, they will compare favorably with the fine troops with which Bragg entered Kentucky last fall; all anxious for a forward movement.

A POLITICAL, COMMERCIAL, AND LITERARY NEWSPAPER.

PUBLISHED DAILY AND TRI-WEEKLY

THE MERCURY gives daily reports of the Market, and Marine Intelligence in Charleston, and of Charleston commerce in the leading seaports of the world. The Weekly Prices Current is made up with much care, and from the most reliable sources. Its connection with the "Associated Press" insures the latest intelligence by Telegraph and the earliest news by Steamers from Europe. It has an able and accomplished Correspondent in London (a gentleman connected with the editorial staff of the London Times,) and regular Correspondents in New York, Washington, Key West and Havana. The monthly New York Fashion Letters and weekly letters on life in Washington are additional attractions in favor of its lady readers. Its literary notices, from the pen of a gentleman who occupies perhaps the highest position among the literary men of the South, are discriminating and comprehensive.—Attention is paid to all matters of general concern, especially those in reference to the Planting and Agricultural interest, and to the current news of the day. Great care is taken that nothing shall appear in its columns which should be excluded from the family circle.

The political creed of the MERCURY consists in the principles of the Democratic Party, as laid down in the Virginia and Kentucky Resolutions of 1798 and 1799—the Sovereignty of the States; a strict construction of the Federal Constitution by the General Government, the Agent of the States; Free Trade, and an economical Administration of the Government. Its policy is the Union of the Southern States in maintaining their rights.

Cease not in Prayer.

Editor of the Bulletin:

Notice having been given in the paper that a union prayer meeting would be held every morning in the Presbyterian Church in this place, we have been surprised that few, if any, of other denominations have attended the meetings. Shame! Shame! Why this lukewarmness, while our prayers should be blended together to ascend to Almighty God, asking him for a speedy return of peace throughout the land? But it seems that nearly all worship Mammon! No prayer ascends to Heaven asking our deliverance from this bloody war. Do the lords of creation think they are good enough, and need no prayers, and leave all for the weaker sex to do? No doubt if they could have done the fighting the war would have been over by this time. Come, Christians, of every denomination; prayer costs nothing—unite with us every day.—We hope to see this lukewarmness cast to the dogs. You must never be weary in well doing. OBSERVER.

Editor Bulletin:

During a recent visit to Columbia, S. C. it was my good fortune to enjoy the kind and liberal hospitalities which are accorded to the traveling public at Nickerson's Hotel, and I can speak from positive experience of the superior accommodations and management of this excellent Hotel. Such a house is a public benefit, and should be appreciated and patronized as such.—The table is supplied with the best the market affords; the rooms are large, airy and clean, having undergone a thorough repairing; the servants active, polite and attentive, and the proprietor is distinguished for his kind and considerate attention to the wants and necessities of the soldiers.

We commend Nickerson and his Hotel to the kind attention and liberal patronage of an appreciative traveling public.

We also visited the public Park, and found much public taste displayed in the arrangement of its springs and fountains, and the numerous circular walks, where the younng people meet to promenade and while away a pleasant hour in the soft balmy twilight. They say matches are made in Heaven, but we half suspect that some have been made among the green bowers and beneath the arching branches of Sydney Park. It is the very spot of all others to quote sentimental poetry and whisper love in a willing ear beneath the soft moonlight of a gentle summer's eve.

Columbia is a beautiful city and has many other attractions of which we have not time or space now to speak. The Basin on Taylor's Hill, which supplies the whole city with water, is a considerable resort, and is well worthy a visit from the passing stranger. The numerous hot houses and gardens are objects of general attraction, and are the admiration of all who visit them. The Cemetery and the Fair Grounds on the western suberbs, are living monuments of the enterprise and public spirit that characterize the citizens of Columbia, and the traveler and tourist should not fail to enjoy the pleasure of a visit to each. The large and extensive Asylum grounds are beautifully and tastefully laid out, and are the popular and fashionable resort of both citizens and strangers.

The new State House is a magnificent pile of marble and granite, in an unfinished state, and some day, when the war ends, and the speculators are all dead, it may be completed, and when it is, it will perhaps be the finest State Capitol in the Confederate States.

There are many other things about Columbia of which we would like to speak, but this must suffice for the present. At some future visit we may enlarge upon the beauties and attractions of this lovely city of shade trees and magnificent palaces.

GALLANT AFFAIR ON THE COAST.—From the Texas Ranchero of the 7th we learn that some six or seven days previously there was quite an exciting time at Arkansas Pass and vicinity. It seems that the schooner Independence, bound from ——— to the Brazos, got in too close proximity to the blockading bark Anderson, and to save herself put in over the bar, the blockader following, and firing briskly, but doing no damage. The Independence was run ashore near the lighthouse and abandoned, when our brave boys took possession of her and turned her over to the owner. The bark commenced shelling our troops, having lost $25,000 worth of cotton by not making the capture.

On the Sunday following this affair another boat with cotton was chased ashore, and the Yankees, after landing the cotton, kept it under their guns, waiting an opportunity to send it North. Capt. Hobby, of Col. Hobby's regiment, with a small force, at night, concealing themselves behind the sand hills, waited for the Yanks to come ashore to claim their booty. On Sunday, three launches, containing thirty or forty men pulled ashore The first boat's crew reconnoitered and, climbing the sand hills, discovered our men after them at full run. They attempted to escape but were made prisoners.

Our boys commenced firing on the other boats. One boat was completely riddled, and escaped with only two men at the oars. The other fared equally as bad. The Lieutenant commanding the boats was killed; several bodies drifted ashore. They were exposed to our fire an hour, and returned it while the bark shelled. Capt. Hobby behaved very gallantry, and, being in the lead, fired the first gun. Our coast is a dangerous place for Yankees to land. The Yankees loss in killed, wounded and prisoners was twenty-five.—Natchez Courier.

CHARLOTTE.

Wednesday Morning, June 17, '63.

Col. Wm. A. Stowe.

This gallant and able officer, we are pleased in being able to state, is in a fair way of recovering from the severe wound he received in the battle at Chancellorsville. We were pleased to meet him on Saturday morning, while passing through Charlotte with his devoted brother, Jasper Stowe, and Dr. Sloan, who have been in constant attendance upon the Colonel. Soon may he recover, and long may he live to enjoy our independence for which he has so gallantly and persistently battled.

J. H. Roberts.

A private dispatch informs us that this brave soldier, who was wounded during the fight at Chancellorsville, is improving rapidly. We are pleased in making this communication which will be gratifying to to his relatives and friends.

The Boughton Wheat.

We have a beautiful specimen of this superior article of wheat, left at our office from the farm of Col. Wm. Johnston. It is decidedly the finest specimen we have seen, and reflects credit upon Col. Johnstons qualifications as an agriculturalist.

From Texas.

The Brownsville Flag, of the 1st inst., learns that "when Gens. Magruder and Bee paid a visit to the Governor of Tamaulipas, the authorities in Matamoras fired a salute in honor of the distinguished visitors; whereupon the Lincoln consul demanded his passport."

The correspondent of the Ranchero confirms the above thus:

The Yankee consul, however, demanded his passport on the ground that the said authorities treated the officers of the unrecognized Confederacy with civility.

The Flag says Gen. Magruder would leave in a few days, as the critical situation of affairs in Louisiana demanded his presence in that quarter. The editor adds: "Banks will soon meet the fighting part of the Department of Texas."

From Mississippi.

The Jackson correspondent of the Mobile Register writes, June 4th: It is not at all improbable that Port Hudson will be evacuated, and the forces there joined with those of Johnston. This idea is speculative, but highly probable. If so, Grant may yet find himself in a rebel trap, from which there is no escape; but I have little faith in bagging the Yankee army, as they are the best runners and thieves on the continent. The successful passing of our batteries by the Yankee gunboats, and the possession of the mouth of Red River by the Federals, renders the possession of Port Hudson of but little consequence or practical usefulness.

The latest advices from Vicksburg put our losses down at 5 000 altogether for the entire campaign.

FROM PORT HUDSON.—It is now reported and believed at headquarters that General Taylor, with his forces, crossed over to Port Hudson instead of Kirby Smith.

A correspondent of the Columbus Times, writing on June 2d, says: Our army is at Yazoo City, having marched through the heat and dust and the dryest country I ever saw. Several men have died on the route, unable to stand the rays of a powerful sun and do without water, as they are often compelled to do for many miles. I have seen but two running streams since I left Jackson—the Big Black and Yazoo. Men drink from muddy pools by the road, as there is not a creek, or spring, or branch in this section of the country.

We take the following from the Aberdeen (Miss.) Sunny South, of June 4th:

Major General Gholson arrived here yesterday evening direct from Jackson, bringing good tidings from the theatre of war. He represents Johnston's army in good health and fine spirits.

Gen. Johnston commenced crossing Big Black at Moore's Bluff, last Friday night. Gen. Breckinridge was at Jackson, and would follow soon—probably yesterday. The strength of Johnston's command is not known to the public, of course; but it is surmised to be within the neighborhood of 50,000.

GOOD.—General Bragg has recently issued the following order. It shows that he appreciates the Yankee character and understands the Yankee mode of warfare, and knows how to deal with both. The country deeply feels that the system of magnanimity and chivalry on one side, and robbery and meanness on the other, has gone far enough. Gen. Bragg believes in retaliation—"an eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth."

HEADQ'RS DEPARTMENT No. 2.
Tullahoma, Tenn., June 3rd.

General Orders No. 13.

II. The enemy has seen fit to expel from his lines, and send to our midst not only those supposed to be guilty of crimes, but non-combatants found at their houses in the peaceful pursuits of life. In the perpetration of these outrages on humanity, and these violations of civilized warfare, he has prostituted the flag of truce to the base purpose of protecting the guards who drive forth these exiles. Hereafter that flag will not protect these guards, but they will be seized and sent forward to be treated as spies or prisoners of war, as the circumstances in each case may require.

By command of General Bragg.

H. W. WALTER, A. A. Gen.

The Battle at Fort Beauregard.

The Natchez Courier of May 10 publishes a letter giving a description of a spirited engagement on the Western waters, of which we had seen no previous account. The letter is written from Harrisonburg which is on the Washita, near the junction of Red River, an important post in Lousiana. Lieutenant Colonel Logan, who was in command, is a brother to the Lieutenant Colonel of the Hampton Legion. The following is the letter referred to:

PORT BEAUREGARD, HARRISONBURG, May 12.—At 9 p. m., on the 10th instant, our scouts announced that 4 Federal gunboats were at Major Beard's on Black River, and within 2 hours everything was in readiness for an attack. The next day (Sunday,) at 2½ p. m, the enemy's gunboats Pittsburg, Arizona, General Price, and Switzerland rounded the bend two miles below town, and ranging in line of battle, sent an officer in a skiff, with a flag of truce, to demand the unconditional surrender of the fort and its vicinity, stating that in case of refusal one hour would be allowed to remove the women and children. Capt. Thos. O. Benton, of the Bell Battery and Lieut. Jas G. Blanchard, Adjutant of the post, who met the boat, reported according to Col Logan's instructions, that the fort would be held forever; that the women and children had already been moved out of town, and that we were prepared to resist an attack at any time.

The certainty of a fight diffused a general feeling of satisfaction amond our little band. At 3½ o'clock p. m. a shell from one of the boats announced the commencement of the action. It was quickly followed by others, but gallant commander, Lieut. Col. G. W. Logan, cooly reserved his fire until the boats came nearer when he fired the first gun at the enemy. The action now became furious and lasted two hours, when the enemy retreated some six miles down the river, having thrown 22 shells into and above the fort. Notwithstanding the remarkable precision of the fire, but two of our men were hurt—Junior 2d Lieut. W. J. Carter, of Bell Battery, who was seriously if not fatally wounded, by a fragrament of shell, and Private W. Ford slightly. At 11½ o'clock next day, the gunboats reappeared, and immediately renewed the bombardment. They threw several shells into the town just below the fort damaging some, but burning none. The action lasted one hour and a half, they had fired about ninety shells, when we truck one of their boats 3 times in succession, with a 32-pound solid shot, evidently injuring her severely. The fleet instantly retreated down the river, and next morning left for the Mississippi. A detachment of sharpshooters from Capt. W. R. Purvis' cavalry company attacked the boats during the bombardment, and did efficient service. No one was hurt on our side. In view of the smallness of our force, the defence of the fort and the signal repulse of the enemy may be considered as one of the most gallant feats of the war.

Hon. J. C. Calhoun.

Hon. Jas. W. Wall, Senator in the U. S. Congress from the State of New Jersey, holds the following truthful sentiments in relation to the great South Carolina statesman, while delivering before the Democratic Club of Philadelphia, a recent speech in which he expressed, as his opinion, the utter hopelessness of the Northern attempt to subjugate the South, and the extreme wisdom as well as humanity, in an immediate and final cessation of hostilities on the part of his country. He says:

Mr. Calhoun, notwithstanding the underserved obloquy attaching now to his name, was to my mind the most honest and comprehensive statesman who grappled with national problems, and I make bold here to say that no wiser, purer, more patriotic statesman ever lived. As early as 1849 he foretold this convulsion unless his proposed remedy was adopted. He regarded the institution of slavery at the South, as the pillar of their strength, security and civilization, and its disturbance by foreign elements as sure to lead to the downfall of the Union. Hence, his theory of reconstruction looked to the permanency and security of that favorite institution, and to removing it far from the reach of intermeddling puritanical philanthropy.

He correctly held that the more perfectly a government combines power and liberty of the dominant race the more perfectly it fulfills the end of creation. He held further that the government of the mere numerical majority did not accomplish this in any reasonable degree; hence he proposed what he denominated the "current majority principle," as better suited to prevent the government from transcending the limits in which it was appointed to move, and restrict it to its primary end, the protection of the community from elementary disturbance.

A MISNOMER.—We observe with no little surprise that neerly the entire press of the Confederacy, in alluding to the exploits of the Alabama and Florida, or other Confederate vessels, termed privateers. The term privateer implies that these vessels are property sailing under letters of marque, when, the truth is, we have not an armed vessel afloat save regular vessels of war. The term privateer, while it is by no means a reproach to any gallant seaman who chooses to sail as such, is really term of reproach when applied to our national vessels. It detracts from the dignity of our flag, and the naval repute of our struggling country. The exploits of armed vessels are carrying dismay to the commercial circles of the enemy, and are fast filling the world with praise of the gallantry of our little navy. Let us dignify it with a proper and legitimate name, and let the term privateer apply only to those who seek it.—Augusta Constitutionalist.

Another Brilliant Exploit—Capture of the Steam Tug Boston—Burning of the Barks Lennox and Texana.

A party of our daring marines started to get a steamboat; the party was under the command of Captain James Duke. After experiencing rather hard fare in the marshes of the Mississippi for some days, they discovered the Boston towing the ship Jenny Lind loaded with ice, up to New Orleans. This was some three miles from the Pass a 'Outre lighthouse. The brave fellows hailed the ship, and a line was thrown out to them; they were in an open boat. On getting aboard of the Boston, the Confederates made a very pretty display of revolvers, when the captain of the ship remarked, "I told you they were d—d rebels." It was too late; the fastings were instantly cut, and our men were in possession of the steamer. In coming round at sea, they met the bark Lennox, from New York, loaded with an assorted cargo, principally stores, to which they helped themselves, and retaining the captain and mate as prisoners, sent the passengers and crew ashore; they then set fire to her, completely destroying the vessel. This took pla yesterday (Wednesday.) There were about forty on the Lennox. About an hour afterwards they came up with the bark Texana, also from New York. They did not take anything, from her but the captain and mate—the balance they sent ashore. The Texana was then set on fire, and was burning splendidly when she was left. There are about seventeen prisoners on board of the Boston. The Boston arrived at Fort Morgan this morning about 2 o'clock, and at the wharf at 11 o'clock, She is a staunch tug—runs about twelve knots an hour, and is a propeller. In the Mississippi river the Confederates were for some time within speaking distance of the U. S. man-of-war Portsmouth, 16 guns, and about half an hour previous to their capturing the Boston a gunboat had passed up within gun shot of our men. This prize will prove very valuable to the captors—and shows what daring can accomplish in the way of a little private enterprise. The Boston was cheered all along our front as she came in, the Confederate flag over the gridiron.—Mobile Advertiser.

General Price.

The Northern papers contain the following concerning the movements of Gen. Price. It is the latest information that we have on the subject, but may not be worthy of credence. One of the Generals mentioned as having been in command on our side, McIntosh, was killed more than a year ago in the battle of Elkhorn; and it is supposed that another one of them, "Steele," ought to be Steene, who was killed nearly as long ago in another battle at the West.—Mobile Tribune, June 9.

PRICE'S ARMY.—LEAVENWORTH, May 20.—Col Phillips had a severe fight with a portion of Price's command on the 27th. The enemy crossed the Arkansas near Port Gibson. Phillips drove them back. Our loss was thirty killed—the enemy's much greater. The enemy was led by Gens. Steele, McIntosh and Cooper. They are now massed in our front, claiming 11,000 men and considerable artillery.—We have only 7,000 and one batttery, but we are well fortified. This is evidently the advance of Price's main army. Dispatches from the front Inform us of the approach from the Southwest of a large rebel force of Texans and Indians, with a design to intercept trains en route for New Mexico.

A correspondent of the Houston Telegraph, writing from Brownsville, under date of May 5th, says:

The wet season seems to have set in fairly, and all vegetation looks refreshed. Such rains have not been known here for many years. The people now have a good prospect of bread of a domestic production.

Cotton is arriving freely; goods are very abundant; money is scarce, and prices are low. Many goods may be bought in Matamoras at rates below prime cost in Europe. Specie will buy more here to-day of things much needed in the interior, than in ordinary times of peace.
